(A) made reasonable efforts, which shall be documented, to obtain voluntary compliance with requests for medical examination, testing, treatment, counseling, vaccination, decontamination, isolation, or quarantine; or

(B) determined in his or her professional judgment that seeking voluntary compliance would create a risk of serious harm.

(C) documentation gathered by Whatcom County may be accepted and considered by the Tribal Court to show that reasonable efforts have been made.

(b) Tribal Court

(1) Ex Parte Order for Detention. The Tribal Court may issue ex parte orders requiring individuals to comply with the Emergency Detention Order of the Executive Medical Director, order the LNPd to transport the individual to a designated facility for isolation, quarantine, treatment and care until such time as the Executive Medical Director determines that the individual's condition is such that it is safe for the individual to be discharged from the facility or issue other relief as necessary to protect the public health.

(2) 72-Hour Hearing. A hearing on the Ex Parte Order for Detention shall be conducted in the Tribal Court within seventy-two (72) hours of issuance.

(A) The Executive Medical Director shall have the burden of proving the allegations set forth in the petition by a preponderance of the evidence. The person named in the petition (respondent) shall have the right to an attorney at any hearing held on the petition, cross-examine witnesses, and present evidence.

(B) At the conclusion of the 72-hour hearing, the Tribal Court shall consider the evidence, the action taken by the Executive Medical Director to secure voluntary compliance by the respondent, and the purpose and intent of this Title, and may take one of the following actions:

(i) If the Tribal Court finds that the respondent is a suspected case, the Court may enter an order requiring that the person be subjected to further examination, testing, and treatment as specified in the Court's order. If the court finds that further detention of the respondent is necessary in order to assure that the examination, testing, and treatment occurs, or to protect the public health the court may order that the respondent be detained for an additional period not to exceed forty-five (45) days.

The results of testing conducted under this Chapter shall be provided to the court and the respondent detained or his or her legal counsel as soon as they are available to the local Executive Medical Director. The Court may then conduct an additional hearing to determine whether the respondent is a confirmed case and, if so, whether further measures are necessary to protect the public health pursuant to ii) or (iii) of this Subsection.

(ii) If the Tribal Court finds that the respondent is a confirmed case, that further measures less restrictive than detention of the respondent are necessary to assure that appropriate treatment is implemented and that imposition of less restrictive measures will be sufficient to protect the public health, the Court may enter an order setting forth such measures and ordering the respondent to comply with the measures.

(iii) If the Tribal Court finds that the respondent is a confirmed case, that further detention of the respondent is necessary to protect the public health, and that imposition of less restrictive measures will not be sufficient to protect the public health, the Court may order that the respondent be detained and treated for an additional period not to exceed forty-five (45) days.

(iv) If the Tribal Court finds that there is insufficient evidence to support the petition for detention, then the Court shall immediately release the respondent detained.

(3) A person detained under this Section may be released prior to the expiration of the court-ordered detention if the Executive Medical Director or the Tribal Court finds that less restrictive measures are sufficient to protect the public health. The Tribal Court may impose such conditions on the release of the person as the court finds necessary to protect the public health. A person detained under this Chapter may also petition the court for release based upon new evidence or a change in circumstances.

(4) The Tribal Court may extend a period of court-ordered detention for additional periods not to exceed one hundred-eighty (180) days each following a hearing, if the court finds that the requirements of subsection have been met and if the court finds that further detention is necessary to assure that appropriate treatment is implemented, and that imposition of less restrictive measures are not sufficient to protect the public health. As an alternative to extending the period of detention, if the court finds after hearing that further measures less restrictive than detention are necessary to assure that appropriate treatment is continued, and that imposition of less restrictive measures will be sufficient to protect the public health, the court may enter an order setting forth the measures and ordering the respondent to comply.

(5) In the event that a person has been released from detention prior to completion of the prescribed course of treatment and fails to comply with the prescribed course of treatment, the Executive Medical Director may detain that person, and the Tribal Court may order the person detained for an additional period or periods, not to exceed one hundred-eighty (180) days each, as the court finds necessary to protect the public health. Court orders entered under this Section shall be entered only after a hearing at which the respondent is accorded the same rights as at the initial hearing on the petition for detention.

(6) When a Court order for detention is issued, the transporting law enforcement officer and the receiving facility shall be informed of the infectious status of the person for disease control and the protection of the health of the staff, other offenders and the public. Such information shall be made available prior to the transport.

(A) Whenever disclosure is made pursuant to this subsection, it shall be accompanied by a statement in writing which includes the following or substantially similar language: "This information has been disclosed to you from records whose confidentiality is protected by tribal law. Tribal law prohibits you from making any further disclosure of it except as authorized by Tribal law."

(B) LNPD shall establish and implement policies and procedures that maintain confidentiality related to the detained person's medical information as defined in this subsection and federal and state law.

(c) Service on Respondent.

The Executive Medical Director or designee shall serve a copy of the emergency detention order on the individual named at the time of the detention. The Executive Medical Director shall serve copies of the Tribal Court Order of involuntary detention for purposes of isolation or quarantine as soon as possible after issuance. If the person informs the Executive Medical Director that he or she is represented by legal counsel, service on such counsel shall be made by delivering a copy of the order to the attorney's office.
